

The Government is making apprenticeships more financially attractive for employers than at any point in the last decade.

For many under 25s, training is fully or majority funded - and eligible employers can also benefit from National Insurance relief on top. There has never been a better time to invest in your workforce.

EXPERT APPRENTICESHIP FUNDING ADVICE FROM SKILLS4PHARMACY

The financial aspects of apprenticeships depend on whether your company pays the apprenticeship levy. Skills4Pharmacy has years of experience advising on the correct route for your business. Contact us to understand which bracket will meet your needs and how easy it is to apply.

You pay the apprenticeship levy

If you pay the apprenticeship levy, you'll receive funds to invest in training and assessing your apprentices. The government currently still adds the 10% top-up to monthly funds entering your Apprenticeship Service account, but this benefit is being abolished on 1 August 2026.

You do not pay the apprenticeship levy

As a non-levy employer, you contribute 5% towards training and assessment costs. You'll need to agree on a payment schedule with your chosen training provider and make payments directly to them. The government will fund the remaining 95% of training costs, up to the funding band maximum, by directly paying the training provider.

National insurance savings

Apprentice employers are exempt from paying the 15% National Insurance contribution for apprentices under the age of 25. Employers save an average of £1,000 to £2,500 per year, potentially saving your business on average £2,000 per year.

Additional funding

You can receive £1,000 to support your apprentice in the workplace if, at the start of their apprenticeship training, they fall into one of the following categories:

- 16 to 18 years old (or 15 years old if the apprentice's 16th birthday is between the last Friday of June and 31 August)
- 19 to 24 years old with an education, health and care (EHC) plan
- 19 to 24 years old and have been in care

You have the flexibility to use this £1,000 to support your apprentice in any way that relates to their employment, including their salary, travel costs, or uniform.

You can find out more on the gov.uk website.
